SIYASIG & TILAMSIK Editorial Board Members' 1st meeting, roll out publication targets for 2022

For the first time after the reconstitution of the Editorial Boards of the SLSU Journals, the "SIYASIG: The Southern Luzon Journal of Science" and the "TILAMSIK: The Southern Luzon Journal of Social Sciences and Humanities", the Editors in Chief, Associate Editors, and Managing Editors gathered for a virtual meeting on August 8, 2022.

Dr. Nicanor L. Guinto, the Director of the Office of Research Services of SLSU, started the meeting by providing an overview of the institutional journals of SLSU, especially since the Editorial Board has members external from the University. Thereafter, he introduced the newly appointed members for each journal, as follows:

Dr. Guinto also presented the publication process flow that the Editorial Board will observe, as well as the publication targets for 2022. He also solicited the assistance of the Board in inviting additional members of the International Advisory and Review Board for each of the journals.

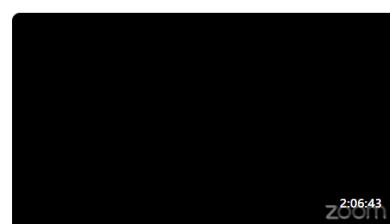

At present, the SLSU ORS is working on having the Open Journal System for the SLSU Journals to expedite the publication process.

For those who wish to submit papers for SIYASIG, the call is still ongoing. The submissions from authors who are not affiliated with SLSU are very much welcome. Please visit <https://siyasig.slsruresearch.info/call-for-papers> for more details.

SLSU ORS NEWS BITS
SIYASIG & TILAMSIK Editorial Board Members' 1st meeting, roll out publication targets for 2022

In order to achieve these, we need:
+ A good diversity of editorial board members and authors
+ At least 50% should come from outside of SLSU
+ Publish at least 8 papers every year
+ A minimum of 100 manuscripts per year submission platform
+ Utilize The Southern Luzon State University Research Services Department's Open Journal System - ongoing with Dr. G. M. ACT
